

Admit Observers, Eden Asks Russia

Sends Personal Reply to Letter From Bulganin

Prime Minister
Forced to Retire
Because of Illness

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden called on the Soviet Union to admit United Nations observers into Hungary in a personal reply today to Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin's latest letter on world events.

Eden interrupted his enforced temporary retirement from active public life imposed Monday night because of illness to answer Bulganin's Nov. 15 protest against British and French intervention in the Middle East situation.

"You know our purpose in intervening in the Middle East was to limit the effects of the conflict between Israel and Egypt," Eden said.

"We called as long ago as November 1 for the sending there of a United Nations force. We are glad to have United Nations observers with us now.

"The world would welcome similar action by the Soviet government in Hungary."

Officials said Eden personally drafted the reply to Bulganin this afternoon despite orders from his doctors that he cancel all public business and rest.

Eden had foreshadowed the British reply Saturday in a speech attacking the "hypocrisy" of Russia in condemning the Anglo-French Middle East intervention while it was using force to crush Hungary.

Bulganin's letter of Nov. 15 was a two-pronged affair dealing with the Allied intervention and a new Soviet proposal for world disarmament.

Eden, in an unusually short note of only five sentences, replied only on the point of intervention. Informed sources said consultations on a reply to the disarmament point were under way in Washington between British, French and American experts.

Eden interrupted a day of rest to write the letter in his bedroom at No. 10 Downing Street.

Informed sources said there was nothing in his condition to cause anxiety. The news reassured Britons who feared the prime minister's illness might pose a new threat to Britain's security in the Middle East.

Eden turned over the job of guiding Britain during the next critical days to R. A. Butler, lord privy seal and leader of the House of Commons.

Rationing of Gas Ordered For Britons

LONDON (AP)—Britain today ordered a return to wartime gasoline rationing on Dec. 17 to stretch its dwindling petroleum supplies until the Suez Canal can be cleared.

With three-fourths of Europe's normal supply cut off by blocking of the Suez Canal and sabotage to pipelines in the Mideast, Fuel Minister Aubrey Jones announced in Parliament that post offices will begin issuing ration books to car owners Thursday.

This move in Britain was the first imposition of outright rationing in the wake of the Suez Canal closing. Other European countries had imposed a modified form of rationing by limiting supplies to distributors.

Clabaugh Hits Assessment Laws As Unfair to School Financing

Suggests Seven-Fold Attack on State Problem

CHICAGO (AP)—The chairman of the Education Committee of the Illinois House of Representatives today suggested a seven-fold attack on the problem of school financing in the state.

Rep. Charles E. Clabaugh of Champaign said he believed that broadening the sales tax and sharpening the enforcement of property taxes could help solve the problem.

In a speech before the annual meeting of the Illinois Association of School Boards in Chicago Monday, Clabaugh said the state's property assessment laws are a "dead end road of school financing."

"I believe that the sales tax should be broadened so that it is more than just a retailer's tax," he explained.

The tax does not apply, for example, to the sale of a house, because it is assumed that the house will be taxable as personal property. Nor does it apply to the total value of a new car in a trade-in deal but to the difference between that amount and the amount allowed on the old car.

He said that he felt a more rigid enforcement of the property tax would help also.

This enforcement, he said, would make those persons who opposed the Blue Ballot amendment face up to their responsibilities for the schools.

He told the IASB that the assessment laws are "unfair" and said they are responsive to the whims of township assessors, citing a case where one person pays a 35 per cent tax and another, in the same county but in a different township, pays a 60 per cent tax.

"The proposed Blue Ballot revenue amendment would have corrected this," Clabaugh said.

"But you saw what happened to the Blue Ballot. It was defeated because those people who had the advantage didn't want to give it up."

Taking the power to equalize assessments from the State Revenue Department and giving it to a special independent board of equalization appointed by the governor was suggested by Clabaugh as a possible remedy. He said, however, that this appointive board also should have the authority to go into townships and make "corrective" assessments such action.

Unless some adjustment is made in assessments, residents throughout Illinois will "pay through the nose" to build other townships' schools, he said, because school bonding power in many townships has been "extended to its absolute limit."

On school transportation, Clabaugh said the problem was one where an amazing lack of "ingenuity, judgment and courage" has been displayed by officials.

"Many school boards spend their money first for transportation, then anything left over goes for educational programs," Clabaugh said.

He leaves his wife and a son, Larry, two years of age, and a young stepson, also his parents, who reside in Rantoul. A rare blood disease was the cause of his death.

It also asked that the new bill include the cleaning out of the Saline river so that river barges may be transported as far as the hills past Equality and that this project be handled as other flood control and water transportation measures throughout the nation at no direct cost to local taxpayers.

"Since both political parties and candidates in the recent campaign expressed a desire to improve the economic condition of southern Illinois; and since the economic conditions of southern Illinois are in need of improvement (southeastern Illinois in particular)," the resolution states, "it is requested that political party differences be put aside and all elected state and national officials work for the common good of this section of southern Illinois."

The resolution asks that the State of Illinois approve the project to eliminate the possibility of presidential veto after it passes the house and senate.

The resolution also points to the need of flood control measures for farm land and of the probability of getting industries to move in once the project is completed.

Shawneetown Kiwanis Club Urges Area Support to Revive Saline Basin Project

The Shawneetown Kiwanis club is seeking southern Illinois support to revive the Saline River Basin flood control and drainage project in congress.

The club asks for the assistance of all towns and communities in the basin to assist in the development of the area, along with Southern Illinois Incorporated and the Shawnee Hills Recreation Area association.

A resolution passed by the club asks that Cong. Kenneth Gray and U. S. Senators Everett M. Dirksen and Paul Douglas be requested to resubmit to congress the Saline River Basin Flood Control and Drainage bill passed in both houses at the last session but vetoed.

It also asked that the new bill include the cleaning out of the Saline river so that river barges may be transported as far as the hills past Equality and that this project be handled as other flood control and water transportation measures throughout the nation at no direct cost to local taxpayers.

"Since both political parties and candidates in the recent campaign expressed a desire to improve the economic condition of southern Illinois; and since the economic conditions of southern Illinois are in need of improvement (southeastern Illinois in particular)," the resolution states, "it is requested that political party differences be put aside and all elected state and national officials work for the common good of this section of southern Illinois."

The resolution asks that the State of Illinois approve the project to eliminate the possibility of presidential veto after it passes the house and senate.

The resolution also points to the need of flood control measures for farm land and of the probability of getting industries to move in once the project is completed.

Woman Dies at Age Of 100, Leaves 105-Year-Old Mate

PLEASANT, Ind. (AP)—Death separated Mr. and Mrs. Francis I. Miller today after 79 years of marriage. Mrs. Charlotte Miller, 100, died Monday after a long illness.

She and her 105-year-old husband were one of the longest-married couples in the world. When they marked their 79th anniversary Aug. 25, President Eisenhower sent them a letter of congratulation.

Mrs. Miller's advice to a woman for a happy marriage was to "study your man before you marry him, then marry for life."

Carmi Water System Hit in Engineer's Report

CARMI, Ill. — George Knostman of the Hillsboro, Ill., engineering firm, Hurst-Roche, yesterday termed the makeup of the present city water system a "false economy" move with no provision for expansion.

Knostman, who has just completed a survey, recommended expenditure of about $200,000 on improvement of the water plant, the storage system and the distribution system.

He said most of the mains were too small to handle the water, that the 125,000 gallon elevated tank was much too little.

He advocated a 300,000 gallon tank to be constructed west of town, in addition to the present one.

He also advocated construction of two new filter units.

Death Takes Mrs. John Morse, 51, Former Resident

Mrs. John (Mildred) Morse, 51, died at 12:30 a. m. today at Wichita, Kansas, in St. Francis hospital. Death was caused by heart dropsy. She had been seriously ill since August of this year.

Mrs. Morse was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Anderson and was born in Saline county. She married John Morse and the two lived in this area until 1934 at which time they moved to Kansas.

Besides her husband, John, she leaves two sons, Warren and Tommy, both of Leavenworth, Kans., and three grandchildren. Two sons preceded her in death.

The body will arrive by plane late today at the Harrisburg-Raleigh airport and will be received by the Gaskins funeral service. It will then be taken to the home of her brother-in-law, Lee Morse, 28 West McHoney, to lie in state.

Funeral arrangements will be announced tomorrow.

Irvin Asks Stay Of Execution

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Attorneys for Leslie Irvin, who is scheduled to die in the electric chair Dec. 1 for one of six confessed slayings, Monday asked for another stay of execution.

Attorneys James D. Lopp and Theodore Lockyear, told the Indiana Supreme Court they needed more time to prepare a reply to the state's brief against the appeal.

The date of execution was moved up to the first of next month by a previous extension. The attorneys asked for an extension until Dec. 28 for filing their brief.

They also sought an indefinite extension pending a decision on the appeal.

Irvin was sentenced at Princeton, Ind., last January for killing an Evansville service station operator.

Eisenhower to Tell Russia to Spell Out Disarmament Proposals

WASHINGTON (AP)—American officials said today President Eisenhower probably will tell Russia to spell out its newest disarmament proposals more explicitly if it is sincere about them.

U. S. disarmament experts suspect that Russia may have put forth the new proposals largely as a propaganda move to divert attention from the Hungarian situation. But they said "stakes in the disarmament race are too high to leave any stone unturned."

Mr. Eisenhower and Harold E. Stassen, his special disarmament adviser, went over the Russian proposals Monday as part of a government-wide "word by word" study of the message. Stassen also met with a seven-agency governmental committee which is trying to determine whether the Soviet proposal holds any hope for successful negotiation on disarmament.

The latest Moscow ideas were communicated over the weekend to the United States, Britain, France, Red China and India. It called for a new "Summit" conference at which the Soviet Union would be prepared to discuss limited application of Mr. Eisenhower's "open skies" aerial inspection plan.

This was the first instance in which the Soviets indicated they might accept the aerial inspection idea in any form.

The Russians proposed creation of a 1,000-mile belt across Europe which would be subject to a test of the aerial inspection plan. The belt would run about 500 miles on both sides of a line separating Eastern and Western forces in Europe.

But coupled with this new proposal, the Russians blasted Western powers in biting language and repeated many old Soviet disarmament ideas, including immediate suspension of H-bomb tests.

Officials said the United States is not ready for another Summit meeting on the basis of the new Soviet note. But they said the United States will want to explore the Soviet plan thoroughly through diplomatic channels before accepting or rejecting it. One likely way to do this, they said, is for Mr. Eisenhower to ask Russia for more details if it wants serious negotiations to end the arms race.

Authorities quickly turned down the idea that the aerial inspection be limited to the zone suggested by Russia. That would let Soviet inspectors check almost all the North Atlantic Treaty Organization area but would bar inspectors from seeing what goes on inside the Soviet border. Officials said this would mean the end of NATO's usefulness.

Henson Discusses School Problems In Rotary Address

Some interesting facts about the Harrisburg Township high school were presented by its principal, Eltis Henson, before the Rotary club yesterday. He said that close to 800 students are enrolled this year, representing about 650 families. Since the start of the high school, 5,697 students have graduated.

Mr. Henson spoke of the problems connected with the operation of a present day high school, stating that mass education methods must now be used due to the large number of students. At the turn of the century the Rs were sufficient, but today many different subjects must be taught to meet today's job demands. He said that many people say that students today are not equal to the students of earlier days, overlooking the fact that students are now educated in many different fields.

D. H. Hiller will be program chairman for the next meeting.

Denounces Soviet Stalinists

The new break with Moscow began on Sunday, Nov. 11 when Tito made a speech denouncing Soviet Stalinists for their attitude towards Hungary. He told the world that a sharp division existed among the Russian leaders.

Monday Pravda, the official Soviet Communist newspaper, blasted Tito for setting himself up as the supreme arbiter of the proper roads to Communism. It did so in language similar to that used by Khrushchev only hours before.

Belgrade reports said Tito, who stood up to the giant Stalin in 1948, was not expected to quell before the new Soviet collective leadership, Belgrade reports said.

Massive Troop Movements

Reports circulated in London of massive Soviet troop and naval unit movements in the Balkans and Black Sea. They could not be confirmed officially, but Belgrade dispatches said Yugoslavia was reinforcing its borders with Hungary and Romania.

But there was no doubt a major political battle was shaping up, the second involving Tito and the third inside Communism this year. Russia already has had to grant wide concessions to Poland and it intervened with troops in Hungary to quell an anti-Communist revolt.

Soviet actions during the past 48 hours have left no doubt that the pressure is being put on Tito again. Tito himself recognized it. He called in his top advisers to an emergency session Monday night and he ordered the detention of former Vice President Milovan Djilas who has been critical of Tito in the past.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Lou Baker of Cottage Grove; a son, Robert Leo Baker, Crossville, and four sisters: Mrs. Albert (Liz-zie) Thaxton of Cottage Grove, Mrs. Robert (Clara) Blackman of Harrisburg, and Mrs. Harry (Helen) Moyer of Detroit, Mich. He had one granddaughter, Mary Kay Baker.

Rev. W. L. Cummins of the First Methodist church will officiate.

Bank Records In Hodge Case Also Subpenaed

Plan to Question
Hodge About
Possible Forgeries

CHICAGO (AP)—J. Roy Browning, lawyer friend of Orville Hodge, was ordered to appear before a federal grand jury today as both state and federal officials reopened investigations of the 1 1/2 million dollar Hodge scandal.

U. S. Atty. Robert Ticken announced that Browning, alleged lobbyist for the Union Electric Co. of St. Louis, has been subpoenaed to appear before the November grand jury at 2 p. m.

Ticken also said that records of the Southmoor Bank and Trust Co. were subpoenaed.

It was at the Southmoor Bank that Hodge, former state auditor now serving a prison term, cashed state checks made out to other persons.

Three checks, totaling $27,500, were made out to Browning by the Union Electric Co. They allegedly were cleared through Hodge's notorious "brown envelope" account at the Southmoor Bank.

To Question Hodge

Asked whether Browning would be questioned about the Southmoor records subpoenaed for the morning session, Ticken said that was "a warranted assumption."

Meanwhile, Albert E. Jenner, special Illinois assistant attorney general, said he plans to question Hodge about the possibility that Browning's endorsements on the three checks were forgeries.

Browning has acknowledged that he handed over to Hodge a $7,500 retainer fee paid him by the St. Louis firm.

Meanwhile, the utility activities have come under the scrutiny of the Securities and Exchange Committee which has sent investigators to examine the company's books in connection with the lobbying fee.

The SEC is trying to learn whether any payments by the firm violated a federal law prohibiting utilities from making political contributions.

U. S. Atty. John B. Stoddard said at Springfield Monday that he would attempt to extend his separate investigation into the lobbying fee paid by the company. He said a federal grand jury will start hearing testimony at Springfield Nov. 27.

In St. Louis, the president of the Union Electric said that Harry C. Williamson, an official of the firm, was given a $2,500 bonus for helping push through the public utility bill amendment. J. Wesley McAfee said the bonus was also for other work, in addition to getting the amendment passed.

The 'New' Communism

EDITORIAL BY
BRUCE BLOSSAT

For two weeks the world heard the voice of free Hungarians. It was a voice that cried out in anguished tones against the Communist tyrant that had muffled it so long. But now it is stilled again.

Led by tanks and planes, many thousands of Russian soldiers swarmed into a land whose population totals considerably less than that of the New York metropolitan area.

Though the brave rebel forces here and there fought on against crushing odds, it was clear the revolt had been smashed. The Russians arrested Premier Imre Nagy, who by a strange process had in a few days become almost a "liberal" leader, and installed a typical puppet regime beholden to Moscow.

It was a terribly unhappy ending to one of the most glorious chapters in the long story of man's quest for liberty.

In Poland, defiance of Moscow succeeded because it did not go too far. The government there held too to Communist lines. There was no open revolt, no cry for full Communist overthrow, no pulling down of Russian statues or burning of Red books.

But in Hungary all these crucial challenges were flung at the Kremlin. Emboldened by their first successes, the rebels demanded more and more. On point after point, Nagy yielded.

He abolished farm collectivization, promised free elections, amnesty for rebels, and a government with non-Communist representation. He called for withdrawal of Russian troops from Budapest, and announced Hungary's repudiation of the Warsaw pact authorizing Soviet detachments on satellite soil.

Russia's limited forces in Hungary began a pull-back as the Kremlin talked of withdrawal not only there but from Poland and Romania.

Yet all the while Moscow's councils were divided. The peril of a free bridgehead reaching to the very border of the Soviet Union was deemed great. Other satellite would be split, and flanked.

So, as millions of Hungarians rejoiced in their breath of free air, and Soviet commanders "negotiated" troop withdrawals, far greater Russian forces pounded across the border and took a stranglehold on strategic points.
At dawn on Sunday, Nov. 4, they struck with full armored might.

The old Russia of Stalin, imposing its will with a blow from the mailed fist, was reborn in this action. With its rebirth, the image of a Communist leadership dedicated to peace and justice crashed in the dust.

Not even the clamor of war in the Middle East can cloak the evil of tyranny so ruthlessly reasserted. The United Nations has asked to strip off the smiling mask and proclaim to the world its support for Hungary. The whole world must see the Russians for what they are.

Hungary's real emergence as a newly free land may now be long years off. Yet none but the most glib followers of the Kremlin will question that the remarkable Hungarians are kept from liberty only by the most overwhelming application of force.

Their fierce spirit should fire
the hearts of all free men.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says: Opposition to Religious Bigotry
May Have Tipped Balance For Control of Senate; Idealistic Businessman Sent As Cultural Ambassador.

WASHINGTON. — More and more, the American public is proving that religious bigotry doesn't pay. Probably this was best demonstrated in Colorado where in the last election an anti-Catholic leaflet may well have tipped the scales in favor of the Democrats, which in turn elected a Democratic Senate. Protestant as well as Catholic voters resented the leaflet.

Prior to November 6, few people dreamed Colorado would go Democratic. Ike's personal friend, ex-Gov. Dan Thornton, was running for the Senate. The Democrats had been split wide open.
Ex-Congressman John Carroll, Thornton's opponent, had been defeated twice before.

Carroll bears the same name as the first American Catholic archbishop, The Most Rev. John Carroll, and is married to a Catholic.
Carroll himself is not a Catholic.

But during the campaign, leaflets were mailed from near Gunnison, Colo., listing nine Protestant candidates "who believe in and will support separation of church and state and will not accept orders or directives from any foreign totalitarian authority." Carroll's name was not on the list of Protestant candidates, and the wording of the leaflets was such as to be aimed inferentially against him, as well as against Stephen L. R. McNichols, candidate for governor, Albert T.
Franz and Edward C. Day, candidates for the supreme court, all Catholics and all Democrats.

The circular was unsigned, but was traced to Clarence M. Stafford, a Republican precinct committeeman who heads the Stafford Printing Co. He was investigated

by U. S. Donald E. Kelley, Republican, and an information was filed against him just before the election for putting anonymous political literature in the mails.

The leaflet caused such resentment among voters of various religious faiths that not only Carroll, but McNichols, Franz, and Day were elected.

UNLIKE FATHER

Part of the Democratic victory in Colorado was also due to Sam Clammer, Jr., Washington attorney whose father was long-time Republican National committeman. When young Clammer, a Democrat, went to his old home at Fort Collins, Colo., to start persuading Democratic factions to cooperate, his GOP father asked him: "What are you doing out here?"

"You won't like it much when I tell you," confessed his son. "I'm out to see that the Democrats get elected."

His father was tolerant.

Note—Stafford has now pleaded not guilty to three counts in connection with the anonymous leaflet, and awaits trial.

GOOD-WILL BUSINESSMAN

On the surface it might appear stupid for Eisenhower to appoint a cash-register manufacturer to represent the U. S. A. at the New Delhi UNESCO conference, a cultural organization. Nothing typifies hard-fisted American materialism more than the cash register, and you can imagine what Red propagandists might do with this.

However, Stanley C. Allyn, president of National Cash Register, is the kind of businessman who should be able to prove to Asians that American businessmen can have sympathy and understanding. For Allyn has a unique record of creating good will in various parts of the world.
His company employs 18,000 people in 94 countries, uses native managers to run its branches, reinvests its money locally.

Allyn travels continually, publishes costly illustrated brochures for his American employees explaining the problems of the countries he has visited, their history and customs.

Allyn's policies have paid off handsomely for National Cash Register, but they haven't been aimed solely at profits. Allyn is equally interested in America's global responsibilities, believes business has a job to do in winning friends abroad.

Note — Eisenhower's choice of Allyn will also help show some of the right-wing critics of UNESO that it is not a left-wing organization but is dedicated to combatting communism through the exchange of cultural and educational information in parts of the world where we need friends.

Advise Reserves Letters are Only Screening Process

WASHINGTON (AP) — Note to reservists: If you receive a letter from the military or Selective Service inquiring as to your "availability" for recall to active duty, don't get nervous. It's just part of a "routine screening process."

The armed services and Selective Service want to be sure that a reservist would be ready and available in event of a national emergency. The government agencies are not thinking in terms of calling up veterans because of the Middle East crisis.

In recent weeks, the military services — the Army and Marine corps particularly — have been sending out letters to their reservists asking whether and how soon they could get back in uniform if ordered.

In addition, local Selective Service boards for the past five months have been sending letters to stand-by reservists asking a similar question.

Two Pankeyville Girls Soloists at Carbondale Recital

Dorothy and Mary Waddell, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Waddell, Pankeyville, and piano pupils of Miss Juanita Joiner, were soloists at Carbondale on the Southern Illinois Talent Parade association's first recital of the season.

The program included much classic music, including a St. Louis opera presentation, which made Miss Dorothy's concluding rendition of "St. Louis Blues" by W. C. Handy a contrast that brought tremendous applause.

She also played "Ballad" by Burgmuller, "Storm Clouds," Czerny, "Tarantelle" Liszt. Miss Mary played "March Winds" Heller; "Dreaming Daisies," Stairs; and "After Sundown," Stevens.

"Resurrection-Men"

Body-snatchers, who disinterred corpses for sale to anatomical schools in earlier centuries, sometimes were called "resurrection-men," according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Panel Discussion At HTHS by Hi-Y And Hi-Tri Groups

The Hi-Y and Hi-Tri of HTHS held a panel discussion, Nov. 19. The panel discussed social problems and etiquette. Some of the questions discussed were: "Should Freshman girls date Senior boys?" "Do girls want boys to meet their parents?" "Should girls wear slacks to school?" "Should high school boys and girls go steady?" "What is the proper attitude to take when talking with a stranger?" and "When and to whom may a man give a gift without offending that person?"

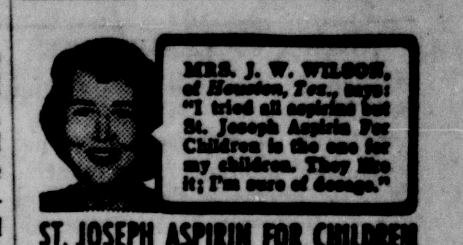

Hi-Y members of the panel were Robert Jones, senior; Joe Gaul, sophomore; Wayne Douglas Stone, senior; and Herb Parks, senior.

Hi-Tri members of the panel were Georgianne Tanner, junior; Judy Franks, senior; Janet Tanner, junior; and Margie Humm, freshman.

Mary Jane Gibbons, president of Hi-Tri, was moderator of the panel.

FALSE TEETH

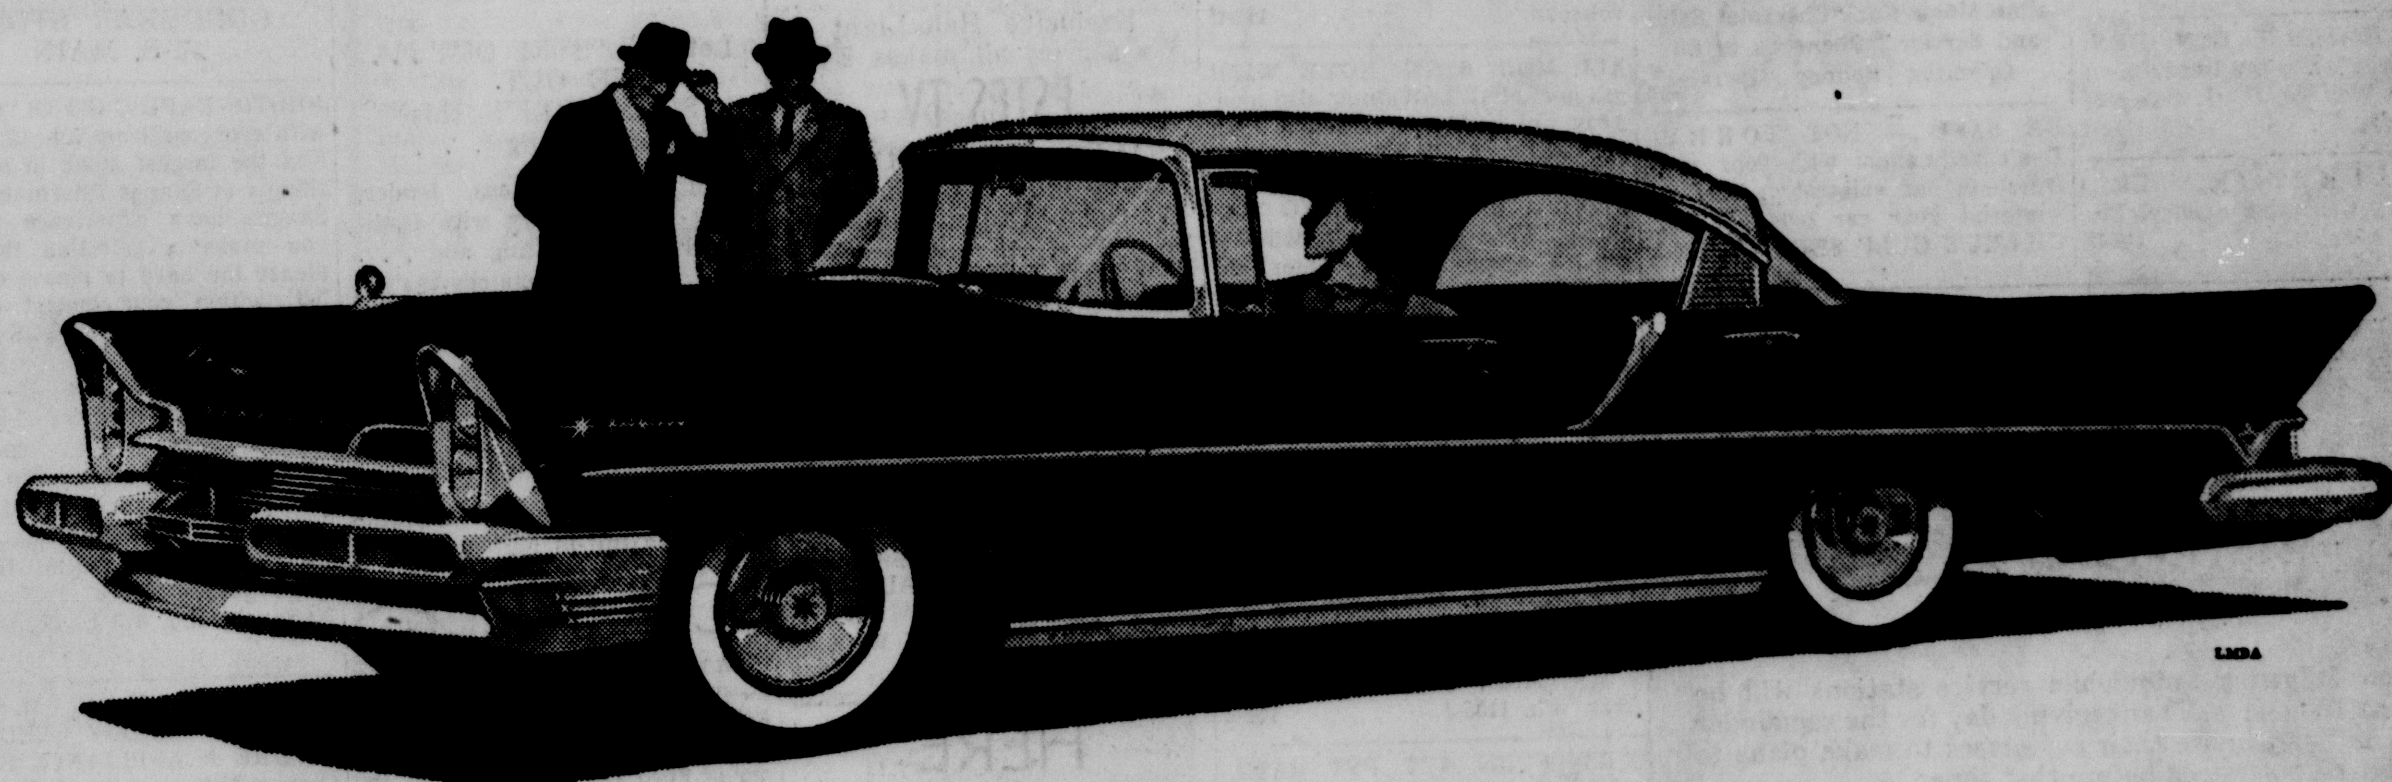

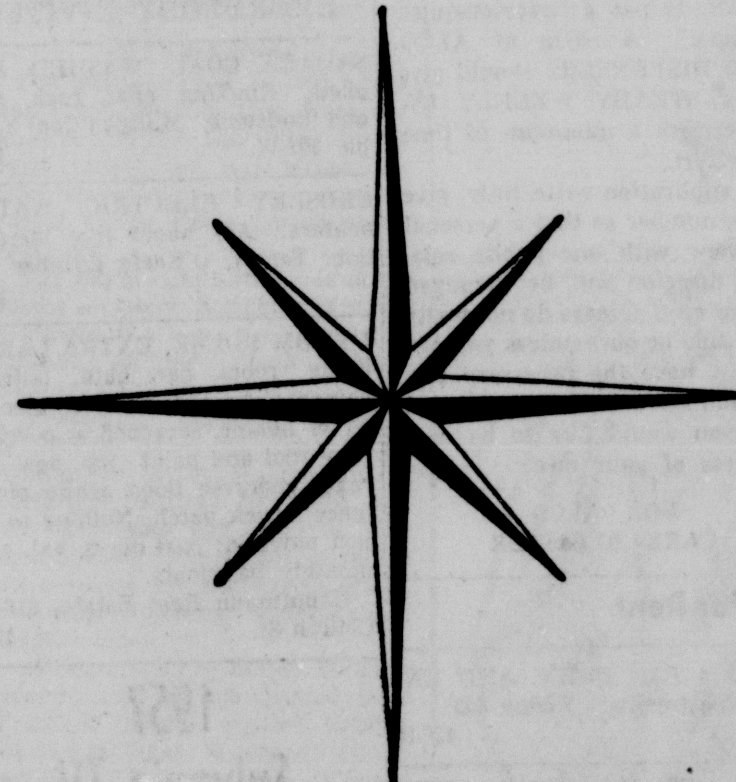

That Loosen
Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little PASTETITE, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Hold false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get PASTETITE at any drug counter.

In the midst of our sorrow, we wish to express heartfelt thanks and appreciation to our many friends and neighbors for the kindness and sympathy shown us in the loss of our father, D. B. McGehee. We especially wish to thank Rev. Wm. Burroughs, Dr. B. E. Montgomery, Frances Cummins, Verner Joyner Jr., the donors of all the beautiful flowers, the Masons for the Masonic Rites, neighbors and friends for the food, the honorary and active pallbearers, and the Gaskins Funeral Home for their splendid management of the service.

Also a special "Thanks" to the one who wrote the beautiful tribute in the Register. We know it came from the heart of "someone who cared."

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon McGehee and Family, and Sisters.

Syrian Chief Admits Russian Arms But Not 'Red Clothes'

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—President Shukri El-Kuwatly said today Syria had purchased arms from Russia because the West had refused to add: "That doesn't mean we wear red clothes."

The Syrian president, who visited Moscow earlier this month, denied in an exclusive interview there were any Soviet volunteers in Syria. He said a statement to that effect by French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau was an "invention."

Kuwatly said Syria turned to the Russians for airplanes and guns when the West refused to provide her means of defense against Israel.

"But we are not yet wearing red clothes," he said. "Let us hope we do not wear them. Were it not for Israel we would prefer to buy tractors instead of guns."

He said Syria welcomed President Eisenhower's reelection.

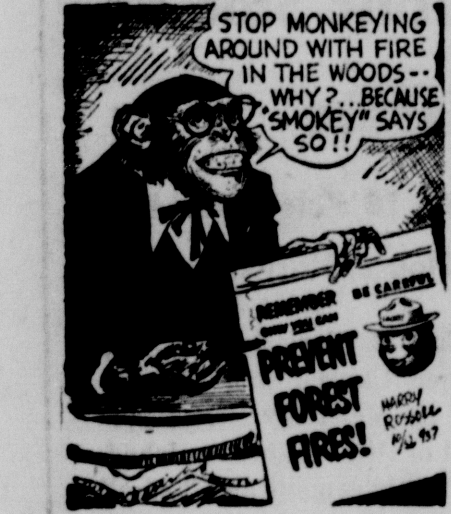

"We have been waiting a long time for the new Eisenhower," he said. "He is a great man for peace. We hope the many mistakes of past United States policy toward Israel will be corrected before his second term is finished."

Hoover Defends Opposition to War II Involvement

CHICAGO (AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover said Monday night he still believed the United States should have avoided involvement in World War II and allowed Germany and Russia to fight it out between each other.

Mr. Hoover's defense of his anti-war stand was made in a speech dedicating a new 1-million-dollar Boys Club building and honoring Gen. Robert E. Wood, ex-president of Sears Roebuck and Co. and president of the Chicago Boys Clubs.

Mr. Hoover is national chairman of the Boys Clubs of America. The ex-president said he and Gen. Wood, who served together in World War I, "came out of that experience with a profound and justifiable distaste of war and all its aftermaths."

"When World War II began to loom up, both of us . . . opposed every step of America being involved in that war," he said.

"I know the general, like myself, has slept better for having made the fight against it."

Governor Herter Expected to Take Government Post

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House said today it expects Gov. Christian A. Herter of Massachusetts to take an administration job at the end of the year.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said he "hoped" Herter's "great talents and services" would be used after he completes his term as governor.

Hagerty said yes when asked if he meant a government post, but he declined to comment on the various jobs for which Herter has been mentioned.

Two more administration resignations were announced, but Hagerty thought the rate was somewhat lower than normal in a period when an administration is completing one term and starting another.

William H. Jackson, special assistant to the President for national security matters, resigned as of Jan. 1. He had been a member of a New York investment firm.

Roswell B. Perkins, 30-year-old assistant secretary of health, education, and welfare, resigned as of Nov. 30 to return to his private law practice in New York City.

The White House Monday announced that Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce has resigned as ambassador to Italy and Robert C. Hendrickson is quitting as ambassador to New Zealand.

Navy Sets Up First Base At South Pole

McMURDO SOUND, Antarctica (AP)—The U. S. Navy today set up the first base ever established at the South Pole.

Two Navy DC4 transports landed at the bottom of the world with eight Seabees (naval construction battalions) led by Lt. Richard A. Bowers of Williamsburg, Pa.

The unit is the advance party of "Operation Deepfreeze" personnel who will build a scientific station at the South Pole as part of the United States contribution to the International Geophysical Year.

The two Navy twin-engine transports arrived over the pole in brilliant sunshine. Visibility on the polar plateau was virtually unlimited. A cargo-carrying U. S. Air Force Globemaster and a U. S. Navy Skymaster circled overhead while the DC4s levelled off for the landing on the hard-packed ice and snow.

First to land was a plane piloted by Lt. Cmdr. Conrad S. Shinn, of Spray, N. C. Shinn also was at the controls of the transport which made the first landing at the pole three weeks ago.

In addition to the Seabees, the planes carried 11 dogs and equipment to set up a temporary base.

Four tons of heavy equipment, including a Weasel snow vehicle, were dropped by the Globemaster after the Navy planes had taken off. The drop was carried out successfully.

U. S. Firms Send Oil to West Europe

Olive Branch Man Dies of Injuries

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo. (AP)—William Orick, 21, Olive Branch, Ill., who was injured Sunday in an auto crash which killed his wife, Dorelena Louise, also 21, died in a hospital here today.

The auto in which the Oricks were riding left Ill. 3 near Gale and hit a boulder in a ditch, authorities said.

Dag Reports Thousands Flee Into Austria

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld reported today that 34,000 free Hungarians have fled into Austria and 2,000 refugees a day still are streaming across the frontier.

Hammarskjöld issued an interim report on the refugee situation while the General Assembly devoted its second full day to debate of a resolution calling on Russia to end immediately the deportation of Hungarian youth to Siberia.

The United States answered Soviet denials of deportations with figures showing that 16,000 persons have been sent to Russia in sealed boxcars since Nov. 14.

The secretary-general's report circulated to the assembly, estimated that 9 million to 11 million dollars may be required during the next six months to care for the Hungarian refugees. This figure would cover housing, food and clothing and, eventually, transportation of the refugees to countries offering asylum.

The assembly voted a relief program for refugees and asked Hungary and Russia to admit observers to report on conditions within the country. To date, the request for observers has been refused.

Heavy Snow is Blanketing Plains States

By United Press

The heaviest snow in four years was blanketing an area from the Rockies through the Great Plains early today, and weathermen issued storm warnings for a wide region as the storm moved north-eastward.

The storm—the third in as many weeks—swept through Colorado, southeast Wyoming, northwest Kansas, southern South Dakota, Nebraska and into Iowa.

Weathermen expected the storm to spread from the Texas Panhandle and northeast New Mexico northward through Nebraska and into Minnesota and northern Wisconsin today. The storm warnings were issued for eastern Colorado, southeast Wyoming, Nebraska and Kansas today.

At least 4 to 12 inches of snow accumulated on the ground from Colorado through western Nebraska and southeast Wyoming. Greatest depths, however, were in northeast Colorado where about 16 inches of snow covered the ground.

Ahead of the cold air, a southerly wind caused a general warming trend to extend eastward to near the Atlantic Coast. The southerly flow of air also brought Gulf moisture northward and contributed to showers and thunderstorms in the above-freezing area from the middle Mississippi Valley southward through eastern Texas and Mississippi.

had difficulty getting their tankers re-routed to Western Europe, but the situation is about to be remedied.

Although reports filed in his office show no increase yet in U. S. oil exports to Europe, a rise is expected by the end of the week.

General Norstad Takes Over as NATO Chief

PARIS (UP)—U. S. Air Force Gen. Lauris Norstad succeeded Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther today as supreme commander of Allied powers in Europe in a move pointing up the growing role of air power in modern warfare.

It was the first time an airman has taken over the reins of the combined command and was tacit recognition that air power has become the foremost weapon in defense of the Western world.

The actual turnover came during a brief ceremony at the rambling SHAPE headquarters, located in what was once the private hunting grounds of the kings of France.

Both Gruenther and Norstad spoke briefly to an audience of military men and units from each of the 15 North Atlantic Treaty Organization countries and a host of Paris dignitaries.

Gruenther, who was slated to retire from the Army Jan. 1 after 38 years of service and become president of the American Red Cross, returns to the United States by way of Canada later this week.

Norstad is already well acquainted with SHAPE. He served as Gruenther's air deputy for three years, and for two years prior to that was commander of SHAPE's central air force.

Three Children Perish in Fire

BURLINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Three children perished and their parents and grandmother were burned seriously today when fire destroyed a small frame cottage in Boone County, just south of Cincinnati, Ohio.

The victims were a boy about 6, and two girls, about 8 and 5. Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Graziana and Graziana's mother were hospitalized with severe burns.

Another son, Charles, 15, and Graziana's brother, Jerry, 15, escaped with minor burns.

UN Force Ordered Into Port Said, Scene of Anglo-French, Egyptian Clash

LONDON (AP)—The first 197 men of the U. N. police force to go into action were ordered today from their temporary canal zone base to Port Said.

The group, which has been marking time with other U. N. troops at Abu Sweir, was directed to move into the Suez Canal area invaded by Anglo-French forces.

A U. N. spokesman said the Anglo-French governments had agreed to the stationing of a U. N. emergency force (UNEF) company sized detachment in Port Said.

He said the Norwegians who make up the first contingent would proceed to Port Said as soon as they receive clearance from Anglo-French headquarters on Cyprus.

The Norwegian soldiers, armed with rifles and light automatic weapons, were ordered into the area where Anglo-French forces have clashed twice this week with the Egyptians in what each side called a violation of the cease fire by the other.

Salvage Ships in Action

British and French salvage vessels were reported steaming toward both ends of the Suez Canal today in defiance of Egypt's declaration that it alone has the right to clear the waterway, plugged by numerous sunken ships.

Some 500 troops from Norway, Denmark, Colombia and Communist Yugoslavia have arrived in the old British base at Abu Sweir and the number is expected to swell eventually to 5,000 to 6,000 troops. They had not been expected to go to work this soon.

But rising tension in the Port Said area, where the Egyptians accused Anglo-French troops of committing "atrocities," was believed to have led to their early dispatch.

Tension in the actual battle area was reflected in political developments in Cairo, London, Paris, Tel Aviv and at the United Nations.

Informed sources here and in Jerusalem reported a stiffened attitude toward Egypt despite repeated Egyptian threats to bring

Concession to Taxpayers

By United Press

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Internal Revenue Service has made a concession to taxpayers.

Instead of having to make out tax checks to District Director of Internal Revenue, they may now be made out to internal revenue service.

The shorter version, the agency said Monday, is less "burdensome for the taxpayer to write."

Illinois Farmers to Vote On Two Corn Plans Dec. 11

By WARREN STROTHER
United Press Staff Correspondent
Illinois farmers will vote Dec. 11 to decide if they want to plant their 1957 corn crop under a soil bank base acreage plan or under the old type price support program.

State allotment figures for the two plans have not yet been released, but Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson announced last week the total acreage allotments for the nation's commercial corn area, which includes 894 counties in 24 states.

If two-thirds of the farms in the commercial area approve the soil bank base plan, which was used in 1956, a total of 51 million acres will be authorized planted. The same base was used in 1956. Under the old acreage allotment program, the farmers would be permitted to plant 37,283,889 acres. Price supports under the soil bank base acreage program would be $1.31 a bushel, or 74 per cent of parity; under the other plan, the price support would be $1.36 a bushel, or 77 per cent of parity.

Benson Announces Rate
Benson announced the 1957 rate for determining payments under the soil bank corn acreage reserve program will be 90 cents per bushel, same as for the 1956 crop.

State, county and farm-by-farm acreage allotments under both plans remain to be determined, but here's the connection between the two proposals and the soil bank:
Under the national base plan, a farmer would be required to put at least 15 per cent of his farm acreage allotment in the soil bank, in the acreage reserve or the conservation reserve, to be eligible for soil bank payments.

If the old acreage allotment plan is approved, a farmer will be permitted to put a smaller percentage of his corn land allotment under the soil bank and still qualify for soil bank payments for the land taken out of production.

Yes-No Vote Form

A farmer must participate in the soil bank to become eligible for price supports under the national base proposal.

Under the alternative proposal a farmer must plant within the allotted acreage to be eligible for price supports, and must reduce his planting below the allotted acreage to participate in the soil bank and receive soil bank payments.

The referendum will be in the form of a "yes" and "no" vote for the soil bank base proposal. A two-third majority will be required, and if more than one-third vote "no" the acreage allotment plan will become effective.

The national support rate for the 1956 crop, which was paid under the soil bank base of 51 million acres, was $1.59 a bushel. The 1957 rate of $1.31 would be 19 per cent smaller.

High-Scoring Stars Named UP Backs of Week

NEW YORK (U) — Four high-scoring stars led by Jimmy (Blockbuster) Brown of Syracuse were named today in the United Press backfield-of-the-week for outstanding performances in college football last weekend.

Selected with jolting Jimmy were sophomore Billy Stacey of Mississippi State and two members of last year's All-America — Paul Hornung of Notre Dame and Jimmy Swink of Texas Christian.

On a point-making basis, Brown was supreme. He slashed Colgate for six touchdowns on gains ranging from six inches to 50 yards and he booted seven conversions for a whopping 43 points. It was the year's most impressive one man show anywhere and earned Jimmy a spot in the week's "four" for the third time this season.

Hornung produced 100 per cent of Notre Dame's scoring total in a 21-14 victory over North Carolina by plunging for three touchdowns and kicking the conversions. Swink ran like the Swink of '55, winging 72 yards for his first touchdown against Texas, grabbing two long passes from Chuck Curtis for his next two and plunging for a fourth. Stacey gave promise of things to come when he caught fire against Louisiana State with three touchdowns and a touchdown pass.

The week's leading stars included several other top candidates for this year's All-America, starting with Tommy McDonald of Oklahoma and Corny Salvaterra of Pittsburgh.

McDonald caught two touchdowns and threw one against Missouri. Salvaterra scored one, passed for one and tossed a wide pitch-out for the third in a 20-7 triumph over Army.

Ken Ploen of Iowa hit the day's biggest touchdown pass, beating Ohio State 6-0 for a bid to the Rose Bowl.

DOCS OFF TO AUSTRALIA — Headed for the Olympics in Australia are these two Southern Illinois University faculty members, Leland P. (Doc) Lingle, left, and E. C. (Doc) Coleman, English professor and father of former SIU student Phil Coleman, who will compete in the Olympic 3,000-meter steeplechase. Lingle was Coleman's college coach. The two left by plane from San Francisco, Calif. Sunday. Here they glance at a picture of Phil Coleman in the Egyptian, campus newspaper. (SIU Photo Service)

Looking at Sports

BY BILL MELTON

There will be basketball in the Equality high school gymnasium this evening.

The game featuring Equality and Crab Orchard, originally scheduled to be played at Crab Orchard tonight, has been transferred to Equality as the C. O. gymnasium is not ready for a game, it has been announced. A return game is listed for Feb. 5.

All basketball programs at Equality get underway at 6:45 with a preliminary game, followed by the varsity contest.

A few years ago basketball fans adopted Cave-in-Rock's fine team as their own and travelled all over this area to watch the Rockers play.

Two years ago and again last season Shawneetown was everybody's favorite. And this season Ridgway is attracting the interest.

Saw several fans from Eldorado, Harrisburg and other nearby cities at Ridgway last Friday. All were interested in Roger Suttner, 6-8 sophomore center. And everyone I talked with were impressed with his present ability and were even more impressed with his possibilities for the future. Some said, "He looks great as a scorer." Others were more impressed with his defensive possibilities. And it was freely predicted that he will be all-state by the time he is a senior and will be greatly sought after by colleges throughout the land.

One put it this way, "A motel owner can make a fortune a couple of years from now. Coaches and scouts will be making reservations by the hundreds so they can be close by to tell of the advantages their respective schools have to offer."

Time will tell—but right now he sure looks like a star in the making.

Ford Peebles, one of the most popular basketball officials to come along in years, had to cancel out an engagement at Carrier Mills.

Cards Trade Repulski, Morgan for Del Ennis

PHILADELPHIA (U) — The Philadelphia Phillies today traded Del Ennis, their best home run producer of all time, to the St. Louis Cardinals in exchange for slugging outfielder Rip Repulski and utility infielder Bobby Morgan.

Ennis, 31-year-old native Philadelphian who has played the entire 11 years of his major league career with the Phillies, broke a record set by Chuck Klein in the 1930s when he hit 26 homers last season for a lifetime total of 259.

The broad-shouldered Ennis drove in at least 100 runs in four straight seasons prior to 1956, when he batted across 95 with a .260 batting average. His best home run output was in 1950, when he led the Phils to their first National League pennant in 35 years with 31 round trippers.

He was estimated to be earning about $30,000 a year with the Phils, second only to Robin Roberts, and was one of the most popular players on the club during the post-war era.

Repulski, at 28, is considered one of the league's most promising right-handed sluggers. A native of Sauk City, Minn., the strapping outfielder hit .277 last season and .270 the year before, bashing out 23 home runs in the 1955 season. He hit .263 in the 1954 season with 19 homers and .275 in 1953, with 15 home runs.

Morgan, from Oklahoma City, played with the Phils in 1954, '55 and part of last season before being traded to St. Louis in May. He broke into the majors with the Brooklyn Dodgers in 1950. His highest major league batting mark was .262 with the Phils in 135 games during the 1954 season. He also hit 14 homers that year, tops in his career.

Day of the Outlaw

By Lee Wells

Copyright 1955, by Lee Wells. Distributed by NEA Service, Inc.

THE STORY: Nine outlaws, headed by Jack Bruhn, hole up in the town of Bitter, Wyo., which is isolated by impassable roads during a chinook thaw. One of the outlaws is wounded and they've already shot up two townsmen, killing one, Tommy Rikes, the bartender. The store contains a stock of rifles and shotguns and Bruhn decides these must be moved to a "safer place."

XI

Bruhn wheeled about, facing the bar. His blunt fingers speared in turn at Dan, Starrett, Preston, Larry Teter, Hal Crane, Slaggett and the Frazins.

"All of you will help us. Charley, you and Egan stay here and watch the door and that wounded rannie. If Tex comes, tell him where we are."

Dan was surprised that it was pitch dark outside. He realized that he had been inside the saloon for a long time and that the short, winter day had ended.

His feet sank to the ankles in mud and there was an evil, sucking sound each time he took a step. The whole valley would be like this, he knew, and now it might be days before any outside help could possibly come.

They reached the store and there was a long delay while Bruhn fumbled with the key and lock.

His hard eyes swung to the door as it suddenly opened. For the first time, Dan saw Bruhn's gun speed. The massive hand dropped, snapped up, and held the muzzle of his gun trained on the doorway. A soft gasp swung Dan around in sudden panic.

Ernie stood just within the door. Surprise held her immobile, tall and stately, and it put a tinge of delicate red in her cheeks. Her brown eyes had widened and deepened. Her lips were a deep red against the sudden pallor of her skin.

Denver whistled. "Hey, that's something I missed!"

Vic quickly stepped toward Ernie, but Juarez caught him, flung him back and his gun lifted in a menacing gesture. "You want a bullet, eh?"

Vic wheeled toward Bruhn, his hands spread out and up in appeal. "That's my daughter. She won't harm nobody... don't hurt her."

Bruhn shot a scathing glance at Vic and then holstered his gun. He looked at Ernie and then pointed to one side. "Do as you're told and you won't get hurt."

Ernie stared, then her eyes slowly moved to her father, who desperately signaled her to obey. Something of her usual composure returned and she swept the outlaws with a haughty glance, walked slowly to her place behind the counter. Dan wished that her father and brother had some of her courage.

Hiatt stood a few feet away, but the man obviously didn't know anyone was about. Dan stole a glance in the direction in which Hiatt gazed so earnestly.

Dan saw Ernie, erect and proud.

Deep mud sucked and clung to Dan's boots at each step. He worked grimly with the others, carrying the heavy wooden cases of ammunition out of the store, along the quagmire of chilling water and mud that had once been a street, into the old stage station. The cases were stacked in a far corner, the rifles and revolvers placed beside them.

They had just picked up the last case when the front door swung open and Paula stepped swiftly inside. She halted abruptly when she saw the crowd of men and, like Ernie, her face went blank in momentary surprise. Her eyes widened, catching reflections of the lamp in golden flecks. Bruhn was instantly at her side.

Phil spoke up. "She's my daughter, sir." Paula took a step toward him but Bruhn placed his hand on her arm.

"Dad, what's happened?"

"Ma'am, your paw will be busy for a time." He pointed to the counter where Ernie stood. "Join the lady over there. She'll tell you what it's about. Your paw will be back in about 10 minutes."

Paula, mystified but sensing some real danger here, walked over to Ernie's side Bruhn smiled.

"That's reasonable, ma'am." He glanced at Hiatt. "Now you got two of 'em to watch, Gene. Not a bad job." He turned and his heavy voice grew grim. "All right, let's get this load over."

Dan caught Paula's searching, puzzled look and he, too, tried to send her a silent message of warning and encouragement.

Now he must find some way out of this trap, some means of besting these killers. Sure as day would come, Pace Odium would make trouble for Paula. Dan read that in the narrowed pale eyes as he passed.

The yellow-faced clock on the kitchen wall between the two windows ticked noisily. Paula, working at the big range to warm up a meal long since cold, nervously rubbed her hands along her apron.

Dan, seated across from Starrett, leaned on one elbow and watched Paula's reflection in the dark kitchen window. He was aware of Phil just to his left and Starrett across the table. Now and then he caught a partial reflection of Starrett's harsh profile in the window.

Phil's fist banged on the table. "It makes me boil every time I think of the way they took over the town. But what can we do?"

Dan said wearily. "They've got all the guns and ammunition." "Searched every house from top to bottom," Phil added bitterly. "We'll be a week straightening up the mess those two jaspers left here. Nothing to defend ourselves with."

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D. D.

Although a great deal is said about the hardships of our ancestors who established the first Thanksgiving it is next to impossible for moderns to imagine the conditions in which our forebears lived. Kerosene lamps were still to be invented. Wells with hand pumps were unknown. Railroads, steamships, sawmills, stoves, plumbing, concrete plus hundreds of yesterday's conveniences which we have more or less outgrown, had not yet been conceived.

Those early settlers spent long days in accomplishing what we achieve in a few minutes. They aged swiftly. We think it strange that they should pause from their long and tedious labors to thank God for their prosperity. They must have felt on many occasions that they had produced their homes, their harvests and their freedom entirely on their own.

They knew, however, that God gave the fundamentals for growing of their food. The Pilgrims thanked God for the basics which we overlook.

It took 38 years for American automobile manufacturers to produce their first 50 million cars. The next 50 million required 17 years and the 150 millionth motor vehicle was produced in 1955, only seven years later.

Men Are Losing Sex War, Census Bureau Reveals

By H. D. QUIGG

United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK — Males of America, awake! — if that's possible. We're losing the sex war. We're becoming the underdogs of American civilization.

The battle of men against women has erupted out of the cold war stage. A flood of hot figures from the Census Bureau shows how the females of his country have built up their dread forces secretly and calculatingly.

And we have gone along, blithely, complacently, living our smug little lives, ignoring the voices of warning, until—suddenly and dramatically, they have struck. The awful truth is this:

The Census Bureau says there are now 1,381,000 more women than men in this country. They spurred and passed us by 600,000 in 1950. It seemed like a trivial figure and there were those who laughed lightly and avowed that a good cigar's a smoke. Well, all that's behind us now, and our work is cut out. We must fight back.

A Crafty Sex

A sex that can outstrip us by 1 1/3 million in six years is monstrous crafty. You know what they're after? Guy and dols. That's dols., with on "L." Stands for $.

The female army has debouched upon the financial plain. In 1952, there were 3,230,000 women shareholders of stock in public corporations — for 48.8 per cent of the total. The latest New York Stock change census shows they've won: Right now there are 4,455,000 female shareholders—51.6 per cent of the shareholder total.

There have been all kinds of estimates that women own more of the wealth of the United States than men. Most financial experts say any percentage would be a guess. But one put it this way:

"It depends on what you mean by 'own.' If you use the word in the sense of own-and-control, then it's women by 100 per cent."

Call to Arms

What did he mean?

"Why, if you're married, your wife controls all your wealth, in the practical sense I'm a married man with three kids, and I know who controls my assets."

And look at other fields. Women own a monopoly on style. They admittedly sing higher, sew better, look prettier, talk on the phone longer, change their minds faster, and live longer. And they carry more weight.

Take the wealth factor, the vote factor. What have you got, before long? A woman president. Then, let's face it—America a matriarchy.

Let us, then, steel ourselves to a positive program. Stop dying off so fast; pamper your heart. Grasp the wealth. Repeat daily: "I'm alive. I'm a living, breathing male. Dames is dopey."
